Had Bryan Been Elected For Jews in Germany Night Clubs and a Jump Automobiles, Telephones

Testimony by Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan and his partner shows that William J. Bryan, as Secretary of State, objected to shipping American money abroad to finance the big war and was overruled by Woodrow Wilson, who brought pressure to bear and encouraged profitable lending by American bankers. There was a commission, or take-off, on every loan.

Had Bryan been elected in place of Woodrow Wilson, he certainly would have saved this country ten thousand millions of dollars that it will never get back, and saved the country from the infernal spectacle of an American President gallivanting around Europe to enjoy being met at the railroad station by King George and Queen Mary, taken home to sleep at Buckingham Palace, and worshipped as a new savior of the world for a while.

If any other megalomaniac President of the United States ever suggests once a rippling American in a war not our own to be shot for his glory, he will be told by Uncle Sam: "Go and get shot first and tell us how you like it."

The London Herald reports a ten-million-pound fund, something over $40,000,000, to be collected among Jews all over the world, to move all, or a great majority of Jews from Germany under a four-year plan. Nothing would be more important than such an experiment, if it should prove feasible. It would teach Hitler and his Nazis in ten years more about the value of the Jewish people to a nation's commerce and general prosperity than they could learn otherwise in a hundred years.

The amount of money suggested seems inadequate. While the Jews might be permitted to depart, they probably would not be permitted to take with them what money they have left. There are 600,000 Jews in Germany, and fifty million dollars, less than $50 each, would not suffice to transport Germany's Jewish population and establish it in other countries.

An unfortunate young woman in New York jumped from a window, killed herself, saying, "Nobody was put anything over on me."

Described by reporters as "one of Broadway's most beautiful blonde show girls," she was, in reality, a poor creature paid to display herself in insufficient clothing as part of a night restaurant "floor show." She killed herself after being discharged, having spent the night "making a round of night clubs with a girl friend and two gentlemen friends."

The night club round lasted until six in the morning, the gentlemen friends went home, the miserable girl went out of the window.

She was mistaken in her statement, "Nobody can put anything over on me." The stuff that night clubs sell did it.

Signs of recovery, most important, are increased sales of automobiles, increased use of telephones. Mr. Clifford, of the big telephone company, shows that in December, 1934, the number of telephones increased 47-84, against a 23-146 increase in December, 1934.

Automobiles are steadily increasing, the modern American machine marvelous in its absolute security of control and perfect brakes. When times are better and men more cheerful, they want to move around and talk to each other, hence more automobiles, more telephones.

Greta Garbo is reported shortly to be in her villa in Sweden, trying to cure her troubles. Instead of going to Sweden, the talented young lady should have gone to the roof of her California villa and spent several hours each day with her throat exposed to California's sun, eyes protected, of course. Her throat would probably have been cured in a week. Sunshine is the only cure.

That ancient sporting gentleman Joe Sumner, supposed to be dying in a New York hotel, had himself moved to winter sunshine in Florida, promptly gained ten pounds, he says, equating at a ton. "There's my doctor."

The sun is the greatest of all doctors. Unfortunately our in-door lives during sunless hours and our clothing all winter keeps him away from us.

A STRIKE CALLED

JOHN GILBERT DEAD

Hollywood, Jan. 9 (INS)—John Gilbert, who thrilled millions as "the great lover of the screen," died at his home in Bel-Air of a heart attack today.

Death of the 39-year-old movie actor was revealed when the fire department was called to his home in an attempt to revive him with an inhalator.

Four times married, and for many years one of the most glamorous figures in motion pictures, his name had been linked romantically to those of many of the most prominent women of the screen.

But when the fatal seizure came this morning, only the hired servants of his magnificent household, and a trained nurse—called a few days before when physicians pronounced his illness dangerous—were present to attend his last moments.

At 7 o'clock this morning, Gilbert's personal physician, Dr. Leo Madden, was called, when his patient's condition became alarming.

Shortly afterward, he was pronounced dead.

But even then, Dr. Madden did not give up. Modern medical science...

DEMOCRATS TO CONVENTION

Washington, Jan. 9 (INS)—Warned by National Chairman James A. Farley that the oncoming presidential campaign is to be a "dirty one" and to prepare accordingly, the Democratic National Committee disposed of its preliminary work today.

The committee then recessed for two hours before determining whether Chicago or Philadelphia is to be the site of the June convention. It probably will be Chicago.

Only one discordant note broke through the harmony. This came from Governor Eugene Talmadge of Georgia upon the question of "unanimously" pledging President Roosevelt loyalty and support.

JUNE 23 TENTATIVE

When Chairman Farley called for unanimous approval of the resolution, there came from the black-haired Georgian a firm but distinct "no."

The date of June 23 has been informally selected for the opening of the national convention, exactly two weeks after the Republicans convene at Cleveland.

In the meantime, President Roosevelt had sent the Democratic campaign of 1936 war message on this militant note.

"We will not retreat!"

FARLEY'S WARNING

In his address opening today's meeting, the postmaster general warned that the approaching presidential campaign will be a "dirty one" on the part of the administration.

A resolution affirming "unanimous support" of the administration was passed.

Poll of Congress Shows Majority For Vets' Bonus

Washington, Jan. 9 (US)—Congress is overwhelmingly in favor of immediate cash payment of the soldiers' bonus.

Should President Roosevelt veto the bonus measure, there are almost certain indications his veto will be overturned.

This was revealed today by a poll of the membership of both House and Senate by Universal Service.

The bill is expected to reach a vote in the House tomorrow.

Universal Service contacted 333 of the 432 members of the House and 79 of the 95 members of the Senate.

MORGAN'S ARMS BONUS REACHES DEALS BARED HOUSE FLOOR

Washington, Jan. 9 (AP)—Senate investigators said today that J. P. Morgan & Company sent to the U. S. 84 per cent of the arms, steel and steel implements they bought in America before this country entered the World War.

The steel-jointed head of the House of Morgan puffed easily at his pipe as the third day of the Senate munitions committee's inquiry into wartime finance opened with presentation of figures to support this statement.

Robert W. Woolf, committee investigator, submitted a chart which said American exports of arms to Europe jumped from $18,765,538 in three pre-war years to $2,187,318,000 in 1915, 1916 and 1917, an increase of 1659 per cent.

The Morgan firm was said to have arranged $1,342,082,715, or 84 per cent, of this increased trade.

THEY TO HIT 500 MEN ON 8 PROJECTS

Claiming discrimination against workers who have a pride kept them off relief rolls, building trades union officials ordered a general strike today on eight projects.

The strike, effective tomorrow at 8 a. m., will affect more than 500 union workers and eight projects.

Federal officials declared, meanwhile, there is nothing they can do in view of regulations which specify that 80 per cent of the PWA help must come from the soils of welfare recipients.

Without even waiting for the union order, PWA workers in New York and Framingham failed to report to work today.

Also, unofficially, PWA workers excavating for the new Interstate highway in El Dorado, Kansas, quit today at noon.

46 QUIT JOBS

In Natick 39 workers have been employed at the Commonwealth Motor Depot in manufacturing powder machines, while at Framingham 10 steam shovel operatives have been working on excavating for a new administration building at the State Teachers College.

It is the contention of Ernest A. Johnson, secretary of the Builders' Union, that the PWA is

Girl's Cry Saves Boy in Ivy Rives

Harold Steiner, 7, of Ivy Rives, Medford, was saved from drowning in the Myrtle river today by the quick work of a little unidentified girl and a truck driver.

The boy had broken through the ice and was struggling in the water when the girl ran to nearby South street and called Michael Conlon of Concord street, Lowell, from his truck.

Conlon plunged into the water, grabbed the boy and swam ashore. Both were taken to Lawrence Memorial Hospital. The little girl disappeared.

ROOSEVELT HOLDS CONFERENCE FOR ACTION ON AAA

FINANCIAL, LEGAL AND FARM ADVISERS SUMMONED

Washington, Jan. 9 (AP)—In a new move to meet the farm problem created by AAA's death, President Roosevelt summoned financial, legal and agricultural advisers today to a joint conference.

On the list for an afternoon White House session were Secretary Wallace, Secretary Morgenthau, Attorney General Cummings, Chester Davis, administrator of the dead AAA; Daniel Bell, acting director of the budget; and Herman Oliphant, treasury counsel.

There is no inkling at the White House of what action the President contemplates. That seemed some doubt whether a legislative formula will be drafted before the meeting here tomorrow of farm leaders called to discuss the situation.

FAVOR CASH PAYMENTS
Both Wallace and Davis were reported to favor continuance of cash payments to farmers in some form.

The President today discussed the agricultural situation with Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Corporation, which has put up more than $200,000,000 in commodity loans.

Jones said afterward these loans were "well secured." He would give no indication of the President's plans in the farm situation.

CUMINGS CHECKER
Attorney General Cummings, at a press conference, called away questions on the effect of the AAA decision, but said:

"No serious consideration is being given to amending other new laws."

"Do you think an effective farm program can be developed, in view of the court's decision?" a reporter asked.

The attorney-general folded his hands on the desk and heaved:

"That's the question."

"Oh, I'm not saying that. I can't say anything either way."

2 Storms Rush Toward Boston

Two storms were rushing toward Boston today and the official weather forecast warned of rain, snow, sleet and gales in this section, during tonight and part of tomorrow.

Storm warnings were issued for the entire coastal section from Newport, Me., to Delaware breakwaters.

One storm was moving northward from Cape Hatteras and the other eastward from Pennsylvania.

AMERIGO ANGELINO RAY ORLEY THOMAS GILBRIDE NEWMAN RAYMOND
Die Tonight for Murder of New York Policeman

Still clinging desperately to the hope of an 11th hour reprieve by Governor Lehman, Amorigo Angelino, 20, Ray Orley, 21, Thomas Gilbride, 20, and Newman Raymond, 21, are scheduled to die in the electric chair tonight at Sing Sing prison, for the murder of Patrolman James Killian of the New York city police. Their plea for mercy is based on a letter written to the governor by Nelson B. Clark, one-time candidate for the governorship of Massachusetts, now under sentence as "master mind" behind hold-ups perpetrated by the youths.

LEAGUE PLANS NEW BOARD 'AAA Dooms Roosevelt'

Geneva, Jan. 9 (AP)—Concrete plans for caring permanently for Jewish refugees from Germany and Russian refugees were announced today by the League of Nations.

A special committee recommended that an outstanding personality be appointed to insure continuity of the work of the high commission for refugees from Germany, whose chairman, James G. McDonald, resigned recently.

The special committee also urged the summoning of an inter-governmental conference to establish a general system for legal protection for refugees from Germany and facilitation of their migration to regions like Palestine and South America.

As a permanent measure, the committee proposed creation of a commission, consisting of representatives of various governments, Jewish and non-Jewish groups, to handle the problem.

This commission would become an autonomous body, independent of the "Nansen office," now handling the refugee problem, ceases to exist in 1935.

The committee's report declared it to be the duty of the several states to assist countries heavily burdened with refugees and to help insure gradual re-absorption of refugees to prevent the problem from taking a more acute form.

Refugees from Germany have no international legal status," the report said, "and should be remedied without delay."

Takes Murder Blame

Condemned Four Hope for Reprieve

Ossining, N. Y., Jan. 9 (AP)—Possibility of an eleven-hour reprieve buoyed the hopes of four youths today in Sing Sing prison death house, where they are scheduled to be executed tonight.

Despite their conviction for the slaying of a policeman, the four expressed hope Governor Lehman would save them from death in the chair. The youths are Ray Orley, 21; Amorigo Angelino, 20; Thomas Gilbride, 20; and Newman Raymond, 21.

Their hopes for a reprieve were principally upon an appeal to the governor in their behalf made by Nelson Clark, said "Pagan," who planned homicide for them to commit and disposed of the job.

Clark, once a candidate for governor of Massachusetts, wrote Governor Lehman, taking the blame for the youths' lawlessness and urging clemency.

PWA STRIKE LOOMS

ing Trades Council of Boston, he said today that there should be no discrimination among union workers hired on the contract jobs.

Originally, the men who came through from the CWA and PWA, said Johnson, "were hired according to their competence."

When they transferred men from the PWA and CWA over to PWA, they required that 80 per cent of the men must have been on relief for a certain period of time.

That leaves the competent in the middle. It is exactly as if a business were told to hire a man simply because he was long on the street. You know, the work is to be done."

Jobs threatening to be done by the strike include the Boston State Hospital addition in Mattapan, city of Boston welfare building in Dorchester, installation of boilers and piping at the recently completed new building for the Boston City Hospital; Robert Gould Shaw intermediate schoolhouse in West Roxbury, a $188,000 project; Elliot Square School in Roxbury, involving an expenditure of $547,000; Phillips Brooks School, Dorchester; an addition to the South Boston High School and repair work at the Quincy Market.

The strike would be extended to all PWA projects, including road building, unless Washington authorities change present regulations to meet the protest.

This would involve a total of $5,000,000 in various cities and towns.

Andrew H. Peterson, state director of the PWA, declared today that there is nothing that he can do about the situation.

"Men on relief get the preference," he declared, "and the trades union men."

Workers are now on relief rolls, labor officials feel that their 10 per cent can be used up the work, inasmuch as the latter group constitutes the direct employment which supplies the real skill and technical training required in heavy construction work.

Building trades officials claim that the restriction involving the hiring of help from relief rolls is a discrimination in regard to employment which they have with contractors.

Officials of the Chelsea Building and Wrecking Co. of Brockton, announced that the strike of union men on PWA projects will not delay wrecking work of the eight and one half acre site of the Cambridge alum clearance project.

More than 100 Cambridge men are employed on the project. The contract calls for the complete clearance before Feb. 15. Fifteen per cent of the work has been completed.

FEDERAL ECONOMY

"In concluding this communication its last words shall be an appeal to Congress for the most rigid economy in the expenditure of the money it holds in trust for the people. The way to perplexing extravagance is easy, but a return to frugality is difficult."

FASHION LEADERS AWARD ACCOLADE

By EILEEN MCCANN

Following the highly successful first session of the Fashion Congress of America, which took place yesterday in the French room of the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, Boston social leaders are looking forward to next Wednesday's session and the further development of the congress.

The 12 leaders of Boston's society and fashion, who were invited to the luncheon yesterday to act as judges of clothes submitted by Boston stores, were the first to see what the Fashion Congress will mean to Boston.

These women, selected for their good taste and sound judgment, were enthusiastic about the Fashion Congress.

"The Fashion Congress is an excellent organization and I think it will be of real civic worth," said Mrs. H. Parker Whittington, prominent socialite and chairman of yesterday's session.

"We are here at the Fashion Congress to help women in the selection of clothes which are stylish, to good taste and suitable. I believe that women will have confidence in our judgment and that our selections will be helpful."

Act as Judges

The other women present, who were Mrs. Whittington's associates in judging the clothes, were: Mrs. Edmund Sears Kelly, Mrs. Robert C. Terry, Mrs. Hollis H. Shaw, Mrs. Howard E. Plimpton, Mrs. Albert M. Kales, Mrs. William W. Taff, Mrs. T. Barnett Plimpton, Mrs. H. Addington Bruce, Mrs. Harry T. Hayward, Mrs. Gelston King and Mrs. Frederic Harvey Hill.

Next Wednesday another group of attractive members of society's younger set will be chosen for models.

Cruise Clothes

A complete wardrobe of cruise or Southern wear was selected at yesterday's Congress. Beach wear, active and spectator sports dresses, afternoon, dinner and evening gowns appropriate for wear under the Southern sun or tropical stars were analyzed.

The costumes which were awarded the Fashion Congress tag of approval are now on display at the store members of the Congress.

Photographs of the winning clothes will be published in the Boston American and Sunday Advertiser. Information about these particular models may be purchased and can be obtained by telephoning or writing to the Boston Evening American, 5 Whitworth square, Liberty 4000.

The store members who took part in the first session of the Congress are: C. Crawford Hollidge, Jordan & Sons, R. H. White Co., Chandler's, Hovey's, Jay's, Lamson and Hubbard, Manahan and Romanes and Patterson.

Witnesses who testified in support of Mrs. Rebecca Hamilton, widow of the late Senator, Chief of Sudbury Police Bureau and State Detective Edward J. Sherlock.

Grand Jury Aims Mrs. Stetson Case

The Middlesex grand jury today retired to consider the evidence against Mrs. Ives Stetson of Norwood, accused of shooting and killing Charles W. Hamilton, in his Sudbury home November 8.

Witnesses who testified in support of Mrs. Rebecca Hamilton, widow of the late Senator, Chief of Sudbury Police Bureau and State Detective Edward J. Sherlock.

Miss Betty Byron, Vincent Club member and Junior League, of Weston, was one of the models at yesterday's opening meeting of the Fashion Congress sponsored by the Boston American and Sunday Advertiser. She is shown wearing a smart beach ensemble which won the black and silver tag of approval awarded yesterday by the Fashion Congress.

MORE TRAFFIC POLICE URGED

More traffic officers and police-aided parking regulations were demanded as a solution for Boston's parking and traffic conditions today at a meeting of the Boston Traffic Commission at Administration Building headquarters.

The recommendations were made as a result of a detailed complaint made at the hearing by Samuel Eliot, one of Boston's three largest taxpayers, "a taxpayer, politician and automobilist." He urged:

First—A less complicated and more thorough method of tagging cars and arresting transgressors.

Second—Additional police as the only adequate means of eliminating "a bottleneck condition."

Third, abolition of political "fixing" and favoritism.

Fourth, substitution of men for traffic lights, many instances in the interests of expediting the handling of traffic.

Present were the four members of the commission: William P. Hickey, chairman; William P. Long, park commissioner; Eugene M. McSweeney, police commissioner; and Owen A. Gallagher, chairman of the street commissioners.

Other attendees were A. J. Mignault, terminal superintendent of the Boston Terminal station; Lieutenant John J. O'Dea of the traffic department; Martin H. King, superintendent of police; and Philip T. Desmond and T. J. O'Connor, assistant traffic engineers.

Lieutenant O'Dea urged repeal of the present parking law and more men.

"Since the non-criminal enforcement of parking laws first became effective in October, 1934, and was later amended to leave fines, the police have been powerless in combating the situation—and will continue to be until they have the right to summon a man into court for a violation," he said.

"And we must have more men. The mere sight of a traffic officer, or a horse in front of the car, is sufficient in most cases to enforce the law."

His suggestions were warmly accepted by Police Commissioner McSweeney.

Commissioner McSweeney informed the commission that he has a very definite plan which will be his next meeting with Mayor Mansfield and one of the budget. The plan, he said, is first to be submitted to the mayor.

South Boston Man Beaten, Dying

Apparent victim of an attack and robbery, Joseph Sears, 50, of Howe avenue, South Boston, was in critical condition at Forest Hills Hospital today, after being beaten by a man who stole his car. Sears was absent from his home for five hours Thursday, and when he returned, injured, assisted by a neighbor, his glasses, $10 in cash and bank books showing deposits of $1500 were missing.

BUSINESS HAILS 'BUY' CAMPAIGN

lowing on the heels of the Supreme Court decision which removed one of the greatest obstacles in the way of New England textile recovery.

Ringing praise of the campaign was given by Franklin W. Hobbs, president of the Arlington Mills, one of the largest cotton concerns in New England. He said:

"I heartily endorse your campaign to BUY AMERICAN-MADE GOODS."

"The Home Market Club of Boston, of which I am a member of the executive committee, has been actively at work for many years urging people to buy goods MADE IN THE U. S. A."

"The purchase of goods made in this country employs American labor and American capital and will help to restore American prosperity."

Encourage Industry

Calling on citizens to encourage industry in its new found "breathing spell," Attorney Edward Owen, whose very first chair counsel in the House of Representatives was in the big new day.

The Supreme Court decision in killing the AAA has opened the decks clear for recovery in the New England textile business.

"But as every mill operator knows there are still grave difficulties ahead, particularly in the way of cheap foreign imports."

"Your BUY AMERICAN campaign comes at a most opportune time. It should be impressed upon the citizens of this country that their first loyalty is to American producers."

"I sincerely endorse your campaign because it means that the American dollar will put American men back to work."

"It is the duty of every patriotic citizen to give business every help in its forward march toward sound recovery."

American Product

The threat of Japanese goods, manufactured by "cheap labor" made in this country, was pointed out by Russell T. Fisher, secretary of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers. Speaking for himself, he said:

"The millions of yards of cloth made in Japanese mills, operating at a loss, are being sold in our domestic market, in yardage that could have been made in this country."

"Purchasers of American made goods help the Cotton Manufacturer to keep his job and American industry to function in American communities."

"Cotton is a typically American product."

John Gilbert, Screen Lover, Dead

HEART ATTACK FATAL

Wedded 4 Times

once has revived apparently dead before, and there was a chance this time.

A call was sent to the West Los Angeles fire department, and there began a drama as tense and poignant as any John Gilbert ever portrayed on the screen.

RUSH TO AID
Crawling along the curving tree-lined avenue of the fashionable suburb where the actor lived, the red fire truck with its inhibitor sped on its mission of mercy.

Captain A. Peterson and his men dashed up the steps with their apparatus and found him lying in the bedroom at Dr. Madson's orders.

Tensely the rubber bellows of the machine rose and fell, as air was forced into the lungs that had ceased to breathe.

Powerful "shots" of adrenalin were forced into his veins.

But it was of no avail. After an hour's work Dr. Madson ceased the word for the firemen to cease their efforts.

BORN IN UTAH
Gilbert's father and mother were both stage figures in their day. He first saw the light of day in Logan, Utah, July 18, 1897.

As a youngster, Gilbert tried his hand at newspaper work, and then became a rubber salesman.

At the age of 17 he obtained a job as stage manager.

The company "folded" and John's father, "Old John" they later called him in Hollywood, wrote a letter to a friend with the Thomas H. Ince Company, then producing pictures at Ivellville, near Santa Monica, Cal.

"Mr. Ince will give the boy a chance at $15 a week," came the reply, and two days later John was on his way to Hollywood where he became world famous.

ONE OF 'MOB'
His picture debut was in a mob scene in which, garbed in a lion's cloth and an eagle feather, he rode a pony brandishing an old musket and ranting warwhoops.

The same night his screen career was nearly ended. Gilbert was one of a half-dozen extras playing "dead" in a fire scene. His clothes caught fire and it was with difficulty the flames were extinguished.

He played his part until a year later when he was given a "part" as Bill Hart's brother. He made good and got a contract for $20 a week the first year and $30 the second.

TURN TO WRITING
But luck turned and again he was an "extra." He turned to scenario writing, attempting to assist in the time, was turned down and failed to get into the aviation corps.

About that time he met his first wife, Olivia Ratwell. She was a sweet young girl from Mississippi. After a brief courtship she became Mrs. Gilbert, No. 1.

INA CLAIRE

LEATRICK JOY
Joined today in sorrow at the sudden death of John Gilbert, "great lover" of the screen, are three of Hollywood's most noted beauties, his ex-wives No. 2, No. 3 and No. 4. They are, respectively, Leatrice Joy, Ina Claire and Virginia Bruce.

The latter divorced Gilbert less than a year ago, taking custody of their one child, a daughter.

Only 23 years of age, as opportunity came to go to New York as director and leading man at $1000 a week, Gilbert accepted, but first effort was a "flop" and he came back to Hollywood. About this time he met the beautiful Leatrice Joy.

Their marriage was of short duration, she divorcing him shortly after he had signed with M. G. M. His third marriage, indeed, was his becoming the great screen lover.

FIRST BIG HIT
"His Hour," the first picture at M. G. M. was a big success. "Who Gets Shipped" was another hit. Then came the "Merry Widow" which made motion picture history.

The "Big Parade" followed and it was about the time of its making that Gilbert became enamored of Ina Claire. Hollywood was sure that they were madly in love and that wedding bells would ring. But Miss Garbo returned to Sweden on one of her periodical visits and the Claire came to Hollywood.

VIRGINIA BRUCE

Hollywood gossips are cheated of one of their newest and most delectable morsels of rumor, now that these two notables, John Gilbert and Leatrice Joy, can no longer appear together to have their names linked in romantic surmises. Gilbert's sudden death puts an end to talk of a possible engagement. The picture shows the couple at a recent Hollywood preview. They were frequent companions at film colony party places.

Handsome "Jack" Gilbert was married in live action and after a tempestuous wooing they eloped to Las Vegas and were married. This, his third marriage, lasted a year and a half. She divorced him.

With the coming of the talkies Gilbert's screen fame went into decline. He was given a "come-back" in the recent Garbo picture, "Queen Christina," at the request of Miss Garbo. At the leading man, some critics acclaimed him as of yore.

Ina Claire "Shocked;"
Were Still "Friends"

New York, Jan. 9 (AP)—Ina Claire, former wife of John Gilbert, who died suddenly in Hollywood today, expressed herself shocked by the news.

UNHAPPY WITH ACTOR, BUT MOURN HIS DEATH

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (INS)—A warning that the presidential campaign this year is going to be a "dirty" one was given by the Democratic National Committee today by its chairman, James A. Farley, who also holds the postmaster-generalship in the Roosevelt Cabinet.

Opening the meeting of the committee, which met to make arrangements for the June convention, Farley tore into opponents of the administration with unusual vigor, and warned the party workers to expect "defamation, misrepresentation, outright lies and every kind of foul whispering you can imagine."

Coupled with this slashing attack on the opposition was a lengthy and detailed defense of the Roosevelt record, which Farley urged the committee members to study closely and instill into every Democratic campaign worker.

This campaign, Farley said, is going to be different from all others.

"I have not the slightest doubt of its outcome, but I feel it my duty to warn you that you will have to combat misrepresentation, outright lies and every form of foul whispering you can imagine."

"However, you must realize that the assault on the Roosevelt administration will be financed with the largest sum of money ever recorded, contributed for the most part by those who have never public conscience nor private scruple."

"They are men who are interested only in getting back the legislative privileges which have enabled them to exploit the people in the past and who will hit below the belt."

"Our adversaries," continued Farley, "are trying to represent the party conflict as a battle between the business interests of the country and a mythical group bent on subsidizing a Socialist, Communist system for the economic processes that have made this nation the greatest, wealthiest commonwealth in the world."

"It is a ridiculous perversion of facts. A great proportion of our commercial and industrial leaders are with the President as sincerely as they were when they were the support of the party."

Why shouldn't they be? What business is there in all our vast country that has not been helped by the present administration?"

From this point, Farley launched into a defense of the Roosevelt record, which he said was more things than the national wealth had been increased by $25 billion of dollars since the Roosevelt administration came into power, since through increased commodity and stock prices.

JACKSON'S COURT FIGHT
Among those praising the President's address was Governor Cullen of Massachusetts, a guest at the White House.

Andrew Jackson had difficulty with the Supreme Court. He once observed bluntly:

"John Marshall (chief justice) has decided; now let him enforce it."

Mr. Roosevelt did not go that far, although he referred indirectly to his difficulties with the Supreme Court, which in the past nine months has knocked out the main pillars of his "raw deal" and threatens to knock out still more in the weeks to come.

Near the close of his speech, after repeatedly drawing attention to the similarity of his own case before the supreme court of the United States.

"The ultimate result of the language of these opinions will profoundly affect the lives of Americans for years to come. It is enough to justify the administration in studying the opinions of the majority and the minority, ever rendered in any case before the supreme court of the United States."

The President went to particular pains to emphasize the "two" opinions—indicating that the administration is studying the opinions of the majority and the minority, ever rendered in any case before the supreme court of the United States.

A frank and open bid again was made in concluding the address that the administration will support of other than Democrats in the approaching campaign. He said he spoke to the Jacksonian diners in the same language and said that he would not be a gathering of "Republicans, Progressives, Independents, Farmers, Laborers, or Business Men."

Mr. Roosevelt had a lot of this sort of support in 1932.

The Breaks
Coney, R. C. Jan. 9 (AP)—Heavy lawyer and his wife were injured in a "teap and fall" case.

He saw the year out by breaking his toe against a bed when he tried to catch a train.

Mrs. Sawyer slipped on the ice and broke her leg about the same time.

Emphatic 'No'

Washington, Jan. 9 (INS)—A quiet, but very distinct "no" upset the harmony of the Democratic National Committee meeting today as the committee adopted a highly laudatory resolution congratulating President Roosevelt for having rescued the country from depression.

The "no" came from Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia, who vows he will defeat Roosevelt for re-election.

A ripple of laughter spread over the committee as Talmadge's words sounded distinctly after the chorus of "ayes."

ARMY OF NEW TOTALS

Copyright, 1936, by the Associated Press

Rome, Jan. 8.—Premier Mussolini's million-man army was shown today to be at full strength.

Widespread flag ceremonies during the 6th birthday anniversary yesterday of the "war-time Queen," Elena, disclosed replacements wherever troops had gone to Africa.

A dispatch from Addis, in the far northwest corner of Italy, circulated by the Italian press, reported presentation of one flag event to the Assefita division, in that neighborhood close to the Italo-French frontier.

Informal sources revealed that the original Assefita division, like many others, had been sent to Africa, where Italy is engaged in warfare with Ethiopia, but had been replaced by a new division bearing the same name.

The original Assefita division went to Libya, Italy's North African possession, bordering on Egypt, where the Italians have been reinforced amid tension with Britain, arising from application of League of Nations war penalties against Italy.

Tyrol Reports Revolt Of Italian Troops

Innsbruck, Austria, Jan. 9 (INS)—Violent anti-Italian outbreaks in the South Tyrol, during which Premier Mussolini's effort was burned, and Tyrolean army conscripts mutinied in refusal to obey orders dispatching them to Ethiopia, were described in reports reaching Innsbruck today.

The reports, which were denied, stated that 50 conscripts from the mountain region, formerly Austrian territory, took part in the mutiny and two of them were killed, many wounded, in sharp fighting with Fascist militiamen who crushed the uprising.

6 Italians Deported From Malta By British

Valletta, Malta, Jan. 9 (AP)—It was officially announced today that six additional Italians had been deported because British authorities there possessed evidence they were engaging in activities prejudicial to the safety of the Mediterranean.

Seven were deported last autumn on suspicion of espionage.

Italians Quit Tembien Region, Say Ethiopians

Addis Ababa, Jan. 9 (AP)—The Ethiopian government announced today abandonment of the Tembien region of the northern front by the invading Italian army.

Rome, Jan. 9 (AP)—An official communique from Marshal Pietro Badoglio, high commander in East Africa, today said an Ethiopian attack on Italian positions south of Mekele had been repulsed.

90,000 More Italians Bound For East Africa

Rome, Jan. 9 (INS)—Italy's reply today to British and French collaborative fleet movements was that sailing orders for 90,000 more men to be stationed in North and East Africa.

Following dispatch of the Valpatria division of Alpine troops to Ethiopia for mountain fighting, five more divisions are making ready to depart, bringing this week's total of Italian reinforcements to around 90,000.

Count Ciano, Son-in-Law Of Il Duce, Under Knife

Florence, Italy, Jan. 9 (INS)—Flying in east Africa and bombing Ethiopia brought Count Galeazzo Ciano, son-in-law of Premier Mussolini, under the surgeon's knife today.

Ciano was operated on for nose and ear disturbances caused by his fighting activities on the Italian front.

Morrows Arrive At Southampton

Southampton, Eng., Jan. 9 (INS)—Under circumstances of extraordinary secrecy in which port officials went to almost unbroken lengths to insure privacy, Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow and her daughter, Constance, mother and sister of Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, arrived today.

Mrs. Morrow and her daughter were spirited from the liner Bremen aboard a private tender, landed at a remote spot on the Southampton docks and driven off in an automobile.

G-Chief Hits Fake Jail Sentences

Fear of punishment in the present system can lead to secure the security of the American people against roving bands of criminals, J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, declared in the last of a series in the Boston Evening American on means by which the United States can curb crime.

By STANLEY J. CARROLL.
By Universal Service

Washington, Jan. 9.—Public demand for stiffer prison terms for criminals, coupled with a wide spread determination to instill fear in law-breakers of a certain punishment will go far in curbing crime in the United States.

This is the confident belief of J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, expressed in a discussion of what steps the American people can take to cooperate with law enforcement agencies in reducing crime.

Declaring the nation's annual crime toll exceeds $15,000,000,000, Hoover outlined prison sentences which say one thing and mean another.

"To conquer the criminal world, the people of this nation must combat the aids by which crime flourishes. I file particularly that monumental fake which had been perpetrated upon the American people—the prison sentence which says one thing and means another."

OUT IN FIVE YEARS
"There must be a campaign of education to teach the man in the street that he should not be lulled by graceful sentences which a judge sentences a man to prison for 50 years knowing full well he will be out in five."

"The American citizen must be taught that prison sentences today are largely a matter of division and subtraction. The criminal knows it."

"He realizes only too well that scavenge legislative lawyers and sloppy sentimentalists have tricked the statutes until today, granted that the criminal has brains enough to simulate good behavior and a desire to reform, this would mean that the maximum term this man would serve 'a prison is one-third of his sentence.'"

ESCAPES FIVE TIMES
"Often it is not even that. I have in mind two men with long records, well-known gangsters, payrol and holding men, sentenced, respectively in 185 and 185 years in prison. One escaped from a chain gang five times and the other escaped three. Both were freed within six years and in the space of a few months had committed new crimes.

"The average murderer spends 10 years behind the bars, and murder is supposed to be our greatest crime. Such procedure amounts to little more than subterfuge; law can have little majesty under such conditions."

CHANCE FOR SOCIETY
"When the public fully realizes the truth, public opinion should rise in a point where sentimentalists, crooks and convict lawyers will be forced to give society a chance by sending prisoners to jail for the full amount of time they deserve to serve."

"There is only one way to make a law breaker obey the statute, and that is to make him fear punishment. If he does not do that, all the investigative, police and enforcement agencies in the world cannot bring about any degree of freedom from crime."

"A criminal obeys the law because he is forced to. The only force he understands is the certainty of going to prison and being there if he commits a crime."

"The must be taught that he can't bribe a bullet speeding at him from an officer's gun. He must learn definitely, that just as surely as he commits a crime, just that surely will be caught and punished."

BEATING CASE HELD SOLVED

Although investigation has not been concluded, police said today they have a tentative solution of the mysterious beating received by Francis O'Hearn, 26, of Kneeland street, Dorchester.

O'Hearn was taken to City Hospital Sunday with a skull fracture. Police were not notified for two days. O'Hearn's condition is still serious.

Two men, taken into custody last night for questioning, explained O'Hearn was struck on the head with a broomstick during a general fight in a field in South Boston.

One of these men said he had no argument with O'Hearn and three others in a "beer parlor" and was chased when he started home. He said he was overtaken and knocked down near his house and was defended by a relative, who came out with a broomstick. The latter told police the same story.

Found Slain at Wheel
Philadelphia, Jan. 9 (AP)—Max Weiss, Jr., 26, partner with his father in a window cleaning business, was found shot to death early today in his wrecked automobile.

2 Slain in Puerto Rico

San Juan, Puerto Rico, Jan. 9 (AP)—Police reported two more and two slayings today as a consequence of the first two days of registration for the November general elections.

Dr. C. G. Jennings Dies

Detroit, Jan. 9 (AP)—Dr. Charles Godwin Jennings, 78, former president of American Pediatric Society, the American Congress of Physicians and the American Therapeutic Society, died today of pneumonia in Jennings Hospital.

Mahatma Gandhi Better

Wardha, India, Jan. 9 (AP)—The Mahatma Gandhi was said by two physicians today to be slightly improved. His blood pressure, the doctors said, is somewhat lower. Plans were made to remove two infected teeth.

ADVICE on LOVE and MARRIAGE by BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Charmed By Profile of a "Dumb" Adonis

Dr. Copeland on Health Skin Tests For Asthma

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

ONE OF MY editor friends has asked for an article on asthma.

He refers to it as an "extraordinary ailment," and I agree with him that it is.

Many fewer and asthma are the full attacks that command the attention of the victim. During the attack the patient can do little else than struggle for relief.

When two or three persons who have one or the other of these ailments meet, they invariably "swap" stories about their experiences and treatment.

Medical men have just begun to understand asthma. This evidence of progress has resulted from our advanced knowledge of "allergy." Physicians are increasing numbers are interested in these "allergic" problems. In consequence they are now preventing or materially relieving many attacks which used to cause such terrible suffering.

What is allergy? This term is applied to a condition of abnormal sensitiveness to certain substances, which are usually protein in their nature. Eggs and milk are rich in protein and that is why they are frequently found to be the offending substance.

Of course, the average person is not allergic to such substances. This sensitivity is observed in asthmatics, sufferers from hay fever, and in those who have giant hives.

SKIN TESTS EFFECTIVE

Asthma in the adult is an inherited back to some sensitivity from which he suffered during childhood. But not every case has a previously known allergic complex. As a rule asthma occurs in the second or third decade of life, and may appear even later.

The seizure usually occurs during the night. The victim has great difficulty in breathing; he coughs, wheezes and appears to be choking.

The attack may last for a few minutes or come on at frequent intervals for several hours or even days. As it subsides, the cough becomes more productive and the symptoms are less distressing. Relief then follows, but the patient is completely exhausted for several days.

It is difficult to determine when the next attack will come. There may be freedom from asthma for days, months or even years. Sometimes the attacks come on at frequent intervals. The seizure usually occurs during the night. The victim has great difficulty in breathing; he coughs, wheezes and appears to be choking.

Being only human, this drives her wild. And she says, with a dash of humor flavored with gall: "I feel like those people who put 'personal' in the paper saying they would like to have away a magnificent, thoroughbred Persian cat and then before many beauty prizes in cat shows."

SHE IS REALLY PROUD

Of course, she doesn't feel that way at all, because "her" Persian cat is her pet. She reveals how she loves and devoted she is to her beautiful but dumb" spouse. Only the lool the ladies send him gets her nerves, and she wishes to Heaven she did not have to earn her bread and butter before she comes to work, and after she comes home, too.

For Adonis has no gifts of usefulness around the house at all. And she admits that he does "look silly drying the dishes, or showing the vacuum cleaner."

She asks if I have any suggestions to offer, and I must say my problem presents many difficulties. If he belonged to me, I'd try to get him to the movies or make a mink of him—they have male manikins these days, who display clothes in haberdasheries—or, failing this, I should teach him to be useful around the house.

What do you think about this, gentle reader?

WHAT ARE HIS INTENTIONS?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

What do you think of this situation? For over two years we've gone together. Sometimes he stays away for weeks at a time, but always comes back. He never offers any explanation and does the same as he did before he went away.

He always bragging about taking other girls out to places, but he has never asked for a date. Why would he continue coming to see me if he doesn't care? On the other hand, if he does care, why does he do these things to me for a date, as he does these other girls?

Would it be wrong for me to ask him what are his intentions in regard to me, and why he never asks me for a date?

It wouldn't be wrong for me to ask him what are his intentions in regard to me, but it would be decidedly risky to ask this young man what are his intentions in regard to me. You are sure he takes other girls places? He may be hard up, and just bragging. Sometimes that's the case, as innumerable girls have written me. They have discovered the girls and that they bragged about were only imaginary.

As you've gone with this young man for two years, and he never takes you anywhere or led you to believe he is serious, don't you think you are doing what is known as "wasting your time?"

Bridge Reading the Cards

A 4 3

The bidding:
West North East South
1 ♠ 4 ♠ 1 ♠ 1 ♠
2 ♠ 4 ♠ 2 ♠ 2 ♠
3 ♠ 4 ♠ 3 ♠ 3 ♠
Pass Pass Pass Pass

West opened the Queen of clubs, dummy won with the Ace and East dropped the King.

The outstanding cards that declarer wanted to locate were comparatively few. They were: the adverse trumps, especially the Ace and Queen, and the Queen of hearts. The play of the club King by East was doubly revealing, it limited West's club holding to Q, J high and strongly indicated that the King was either singleton or doubleton, marking West with seven or eight clubs.

Also, West was located with the missing two Aces, and probably the heart Queen to justify his vulnerable bid and rebid. Thus, it must follow that East, for his business double of four spades, had no honor cards in either hearts or diamonds and, therefore, have length in the trump suit.

Satisfied that his reasoning was sound, and that West must hold the singleton Ace of trumps, the declarer led the deuce from dummy and followed with the three from his own hand. Only in this way could the opponents be held to one trump trick.

West cashed a club, but the declarer's only other loss was the diamond Ace. East's trumps were successively finessed and the heart Queen was smothered for the fulfillment of the contract.

Mrs. Beekman on Good Manners Flowers for Theater Party

FLOWERS FOR LADIES

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

My husband and I are invited to a dinner-theater party given by the husband of a couple whom we know very well. There is to be just one other couple in the party—there will be three of the hosts and one of the hostesses for the evening.

If so, should he send the corsage to her home, together with one for me, or should I wear mine from home? If he should wear mine, should he also send one for the other lady of the party—there will be three of the hosts and one of the hostesses for the evening?

If this isn't correct, should flowers be sent to her after the party, or does one just express by word of mouth the thanks for the evening?

Yes, it's correct, and very gracious too, for your husband to send a corsage to the hostess of this party. Since there are to be only three women guests at the party, it would be conspicuously ungracious for your husband to pay this flower-compliment to two of the women and omit the third.

He should send corsage to the hostess and to the other women guests. These corsages may either be sent to the individual address, on the afternoon of the party, or they may be sent to the hostess' address. The latter is often done, and gives a girl beginning to the party. There is more of a point to sending the hostess a corsage for her to wear at the party than there is to sending her flowers after the party.

As you and your husband are leaving the party, you would both thank the hostess and host for a happy evening. And it is one of the nicest gestures for you, a day or so after the party, to write a note of appreciation of the hospitality. Your note would, of course, also express your husband's appreciation.

DINNER JACKETS

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

Is a white bow tie worn with Tuxedo at any time?

Joe.

No, a white tie is never worn with a Tuxedo suit. A white evening tie is a formal tie and is therefore appropriate with formal evening clothes, the tail-coat. A black evening tie is an informal tie, and is worn with the dinner jacket or Tuxedo suit.

WILLENZ WON'T OPPOSE STAY FOR BRUNO

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 8 (AP).—Alfred General Daulton, who will neither oppose nor consent to a stay of execution for Bruno Hauptmann when his case is heard by the court of pardons Saturday, was learned from a reliable source today.

State attorneys, it was said, have not yet decided whether to take part in the case which would be a matter for the court of pardons only.

Willem and Frederick Anthony M. Hauptmann, Jr., of Haverhill, N. H., would appear before the court as a matter of routine. And would continue their stay of execution until the court has decided on the stay.

Court Set to Stay Reprieve for Bruno

New York, Jan. 8 (INS).—Members of New Jersey's court of pardons will wait Governor Hoffman until they all, not some, are in favor of Hauptmann and his brother.

The court must also be satisfied that the execution must stand out alone in the spotlight of public opinion.

The court also has a copy of the Journal and in a copyrighted story.

They will also tell the governor, the Journal added, that neither attorneys of Hauptmann nor defense attorneys, nor from private investigators, will be tolerated, since this state's courts and the United States Supreme Court have already branded the condemned prisoner as the murderer of the Lindbergh baby.

The Journal said this information had come exclusively to the newspaper from one of the members of the court. The story continued:

Members of the court, seated that under the New Jersey laws, they can only hear pleas for clemency and are not empowered to hear any new evidence in the case.

New Jersey's chief magistrate will be reminded that he controls but one of the eight voices of the group and that four other voices in addition to his own must be Hauptmann's to save him from the electric chair.

Many legislators gathered here for the opening session Tuesday are of the opinion that Governor Hoffman is fighting a lost cause and losing political support in the state because of his "protectionist" attitude toward a convicted murderer.

Flood of Bruno Tips Found Valueless Here

Out of a mass of "clues" and tips in the Lindbergh case, which have been nearly all of Massachusetts state detective force busy checking, not one has been found of value, it was revealed today by Public Safety Commissioner Paul C. Kirk as the hour for Bruno Hauptmann's execution approached.

During the past week these tips and "clues" have increased so rapidly that the state police have been flooded with them.

Most of them have been in the effect that on the night of the Lindbergh baby kidnapping, Hauptmann was seen in Massachusetts, far from the kidnap scene in Hopewell, N. J.

FLUSH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 times a day and no get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste, poisonous matter, you're in trouble. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS, which have been used successfully by millions of people for over 40 years. They are happy and will help to flush out the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Newspaper Ads Win Confidence, Survey Shows

New York, Jan. 8 (AP).—A high degree of confidence that newspaper advertising is reliable, found in a wide cross-section of the American public, was reported today by Charles C. Stebbins in an advertising research study.

More than 5000 persons from coast to coast were asked 15 questions about newspaper advertising by a corps of young women. The questions were put to mill food workers, professors, radio announcers, physicians, housewives, clerks, bartenders, heavy-duty workers and many others.

The survey covered 21 states in 122 occupations.

"To the question," Stebbins reports, "Which do you usually consider more reliable, statements given out by men elected to public office or advertisements in your daily newspapers?" 63 per cent favor newspaper advertisements.

"Answering the question," Stebbins says, "Which do you usually consider more reliable, claims and statements made by salesmen or advertisements in your daily newspapers?" 63 per cent favor newspaper advertisements.

Hoover Working on Farm Speech

New York, Jan. 8 (AP).—Herbert Hoover went to work today on his forthcoming address on agricultural problems, which he will make in Lincoln, Neb., January 16.

Lawrence Richey, the former president's secretary, said he would have no comment to make, at the time, on the administration's agricultural problems, resulting from invalidation of the AAA.

DEVENS URGED AS AIR BASE

Washington, Jan. 8 (AP).—A plan to build an air base at Devens, Mass., was approved today by the War Department. The base would be used for the training of troops and for the storage of military equipment.

"In the event an air base is established in New England," he said, "Fort Devens, at present a permanent army base with adequate facilities for storage of munitions and other essentials, should be the choice of the War Department."

CAMERA MEN HOLD DINNER

Filled with much rich food, Boston press photographers were snapping their shutters with a new vigor today, following the ninth annual banquet of the Press Photographers Association of Boston at the Hotel Kromer.

The banquet was the most successful of those held thus far and was attended by Governor Louis J. Brandeis, unable to be present because of business in Washington.

George Stobie of the Maine press and game division and the state press representative, Eli Dugan, were present.

An elaborate floor show was presented following the dinner, and, with chemically-treated fingers, the photographers were in business preparing cards of thanks to the Hotel Bradford Caspary, the American Federation of Labor, the RKO-Kellogg Theaters, the Central New England Theatre and the J. P. Coy College.

Mass. for the New England press to be evaluated a long with other members of the press.

Covey said the first is not only for inland to afford safety and yet near enough in the coast—40 miles—to give it strategic advantage.

"In the event an air base is established in New England," he said, "Fort Devens, at present a permanent army base with adequate facilities for storage of munitions and other essentials, should be the choice of the War Department."

Boy in Desert Feared Kidnaped

Indio, Cal., Jan. 8 (INS).—Strongly fearing another desert kidnapping, searchers today followed a dim trail of little footprints in the sands which they hope will lead to 12-year-old Alfred Altman, son of Joseph Altman, wealthy Brooklyn, N. Y., manufacturer.

The boy was reported missing Tuesday by his governor, Mark W. Reed, who said he wandered off from the car while she was with a party searching for the mythical demands of Painted Canyon, lonely desert region near here.

Deputy sheriff, who announced discovery of the dim trail of footprints, said they feared the boy either was dead or kidnaped, since it would be impossible for him to live in the arid country without water or food.

At the same time Deputy Sheriff R. B. Devereux, in charge of the case, broadcast description of a slender, brown-haired boy, about 12 years old, wearing a light-colored shirt and dark trousers.

FLOYD GIBBONS' PAGE OF THRILLS AND MYSTERY

Bolt From the Blue

Allston Man's Adventure When the World Goes Crazy With the Heat

By FLOYD GIBBONS

Publication of your story may be delayed a bit while Floyd is in the war zone, because of the time it takes him to reach him. Floyd asks all his adventurers to "be patient with a hard workin' feller."

HELLO EVERYBODY:

It was a hot day. That was the cause of it all. But before we go into that, let's introduce STANLEY W. BROWN, of 91 Chester street, Allston.

Stan is the day's new member and if it weren't for the heat, he might never have joined the Adventure Club. On the other hand, maybe he would have. Maybe he has a dozen more adventures up his sleeve. Let's have them, Stan. This one's a honey.

I seem to be harping a lot on the heat. Well, it plays a big part in the story. In every one of these yarns, there is a cause that lies behind the effect. Sometimes the cause is the most interesting part of the whole adventure. Lots of people have had adventures with heat of one sort or another. Old timers like I am are bound to have a big adventure with heat down there at the end of the road. But damned few people have had heat affect them the way Stan Brown did. It shot his car out from under him like it was George Washington's horse.

I've said it was a hot day. That was nothing more or less than an understatement. It was a blisterer—a hundred and ten in the shade of the ice house. The hottest day of a doggone hot summer. That day was June 26th, 1934. You can look up the weather reports for yourself.

It was late afternoon, and Stan was driving his car down Washington street in Boston, in the midst of a flock of traffic. As he was going past Newspaper Row, his ear-drums got a jolt, with the sound of a terrific explosion.

Stan didn't know what had happened. The roar was so loud that he couldn't think of anything except that maybe a building had caved and was falling over. He put on his brakes, though, and it's a doggone good thing for Stan that he did. He might not be here with us today, telling this story if he hadn't.

That explosion was only the beginning. Before Stan had a chance to get his bearings, he heard another roar. That second explosion was twice as loud as the first. Stan thought of air raids but that didn't seem likely.

Then, before he had a chance to think of anything else, he began to hear people yelling: "Look out! Look out!"

And then, boys and girls, a curious thing happened. Stan's car just sank under him—settled down hard first, like a camel that's getting ready to unload his passengers. And still Stan didn't know what all this was about.

Things had come so fast that he was totally bewildered. As fast as he formed a theory, he got another jolt that shook it out of his head. What happened, happened with the lightning rapidity that defied thought to keep pace with it.

Says Stan: "I was scared to death.

"The only possible explanation I could think of was that the world was coming to an end. At first I started to go faint all over. Then I snapped out of that and began to shake like a leaf. The blood seemed to be draining away from my body, leaving me chilled to the bone. I felt like a man who had just come out of a bath of ice cold water. Then—I looked at the front of my car."

Stan says he looked at the front of his car. What he should have said was that he looked FOR the front of his car. It just wasn't there. Over the top of the dash he saw nothing but the street ahead of him. The hood of that buzz buggy wasn't in sight.

IT WAS THE MOST CURIOUS THING THAT HAD EVER HAPPENED TO STAN IN HIS LIFE.

Then Stan half rose in his seat—and saw the hood of his car. It was flattened out on the ground, a crushed mass of wreckage. It was getting to be too much for Stan. He began to wonder if he was going crazy. After all, automobile motors didn't explode with terrific reports like the ones he had heard. And furthermore, no explosion would have flattened a motor out in such a peculiar manner.

Then Stan saw something else in the wreckage. It looked like a great bullet that had been twisted and bent by some superhuman hand. But that didn't do anything to clear up the mystery either. Stan gave it up and began asking questions of the people who had come crowding around his car.

There were hundreds of people gathered around him and all of them were trying to talk at once. Finally, though, Stan got the answer. "It was all the heat. That, and a truckload of those big metal gas tanks that they put in soda fountains to make carbonated water."

The intense heat of the day had expanded the gas in those tanks until one of them burst. It shot eighty feet, straight up in the air and came down on the hood of Stan's buzz buggy. It had missed his windshield by just two inches.

"And I've been wondering ever since," says Stan, "what would have happened if I hadn't put on my brakes when I heard the first report."

It's a strange world, boys and girls, where you are always liable to have adventure thrust upon you. On the other hand, it would be a pretty dull world, if we weren't.

SO SEND IN THOSE STORIES OF YOURS AND LET THE BEST OF 'EM READ THEM.

Between you and me, we'll pool all the excitement in the world and dish it out for everybody to enjoy.

Tomorrow I'm dishing you out a real thriller. Until then—DIME UP!

Floyd Gibbons, himself an adventurer of note, is never too busy to listen to the other fellow's experience. He wants to hear the story of the biggest thrill in YOUR life, and wants to pay you in dollars for it. Floyd says anyone can draw down one of these $100.00 dollar checks, or win the hundred that he gives for the best, TRUE, adventure story of the month. Literary ability has nothing to do with it. Send him YOUR story. Win a prize! become a member of the Adventurers' Club.

Hockey Players Organizing Demand More Playoff Money

By BILL GRIMES

According to the Grapevine Information Association, the National Hockey League players are organizing. When the enrollment is complete, they will make demands upon the club owners for a stipulated percentage of the playoff receipts.

They hope to enroll enough strength to arrive at an agreement with their bosses similar to the arrangements under which World Series money is distributed among the baseball players.

There has never been any fixed rule in hockey as to the players' share of playoff receipts.

In baseball, the players receive 51 per cent of the gross receipts of the first four games. The balance goes to the clubs and commissioner.

Upon his return, Norris demanded a poll of the governors, which was granted. Calder, who received only one vote—Rangers—was overruled, and McDonald became the property of Detroit.

For some unknown reason, Calder has been hostile to Norris, since the latter entered hockey, which he did just in time to save the game in Detroit. Although it is impossible for any scrupulous to give any governor to comment on the matter, because of the rule, the Norris-Calder war is more than serious. Norris brought an abundance of money into the N. H. L. and has been a very free spender.

Calder may be firmly entrenched in his job, but, judging from the support Norris received on the McDonald case from the other governors, the Detroit owner is in far better standing with his fellow managers than he was a year ago.

Calder's berth hinges on the votes of the directors, and, if Norris is gunning for him, the prey will have trouble keeping out of his clutches.

Swimming Beauty Aid, Say Sisters

New York, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Two of the outstanding women backstrokers in America, who are preparing for the Olympic trials, said today that swimming is a beauty aid.

"It keeps me fit, and it's a beauty aid," said Erna Kompa, 21, of New York City. "I feel like a new person after a swim."

Elizabeth Kompa, 20, of New York City, also said that swimming is a beauty aid. "It keeps me fit and it's a beauty aid," she said.

The Kompa sisters, who were born in Germany but are now American citizens, are preparing for the Olympic trials. They are both backstrokers.

KNOCKS Krishman OUT FISTS, CHAIRS FLY

Holyoke, Jan. 9.—"Now I know he'll never get a crack at the championship as long as Danno is the ruler of the heavyweight division."

It was Jack McGrath, manager of the world heavyweight wrestling titleholder, speaking. He referred to Yvon Robert, who has been challenging and running down the wearer of the diadem for 10 these many months.

McGrath made his speech after Robert had pinned O'Mahony's shoulders for 21 seconds, 21 more than necessary to win a fall, and a knocked him out.

Polowski Remains Unbeaten

By Paul Whelton

Between the nobility and the commoner it was a very appalling spectacle of mayhem at Alex McLean's weekly wrestling show at Boston Arena, but when the dust of combat had settled there were Count Caesar Polowski's whistles blaring in triumph once more.

It took two falls for the Count to crush Charlie Strick, the Omaha badman and commoner, in the arena main battle, the Count throwing the middle fall to Fate by remaining outside the ring for more than the allotted 20 seconds, while he detained in a separate tussle with Strick's second.

What little wrestling there was you could have written out on a humming bird's egg, but of punching, eye-poking, kicking, kicking and head-butting there was considerable. The Count finally tying to lift and slam Strick in his arms.

There were 84, 14, of the second round failed out when the Count was bounced from the ring to the floor, and when he got up he turned his attention to Strick's second.

At Morrell, referee, had tolled off 20 seconds and could have counted 30 more before the brave police were able to get the Count back inside the ropes again.

Coming back for the third, the nobility was very angry indeed, and he went at the commoner with everything but his long idle and routine shoving hit. The referee fell with them—but he was on top.

Polowski, as furious a battle, although long a bit more orthodox, but not much, was the fiery semiotic between Henry Perry, the Holland giant, and curly Freddy Marshall of the pugilist West.

Polowski was awarded the decision, 2-1, through the scheduled 30 minute match when referee Morrell disqualified Marshall for eye-poking, kicking and the like.

McGill Blanks Crimson Sextet

McGill University's hockey team completed a clean sweep of the American tour when it defeated Harvard, 3-0, at the Garden.

That the Montreal invaders didn't run up a more imposing total may be traced to the excellent play of Tom Morris, right wing, scored two of the invaders' goals.

Mr. Boston George Says It With Coin

By Jack Conway

ED DON GEORGE doesn't want anybody to think he is afraid to meet any wrestler in the world.

The former world champion has posted a certified check for $5000 with Paul Bowser to clash with the winner of the tussle between Yvon Robert and Jim Browning which will be held at the Garden tomorrow night.

George has been accused of side-stepping Robert. Don and the French-Canadian were booked to meet at the Garden the latter part of December.

Ed came from the tussle on the ground he was in, and Robert then charged George had run out of the tussle.

By posting $5000 to clash with the winner of tomorrow night's match, George has shown he is sincere in his claim that he is willing to meet all comers in his effort to regain his lost championship.

PICKS BROWNING

INCIDENTALLY George is picking Browning to win from Robert. "Browning is too strong and experienced for Robert," declared Don. "Jim is the most powerful grappler I have ever met, while Robert is a very body builder, he is always likely to win for me."

Browning is expected to arrive here tonight. He sends word he is in excellent condition and confident he will leave the ring a winner.

Robert is working at Jerry Buckley's Gym. The 23-year-old French-Canadian, who recently pinned Hans Steinko in seven minutes, believes he is well on his way to a championship bout with Danno O'Mahony.

The Irishman recently issued a statement in which he said he would remain in this country until he would be getting into so much trouble and thus be hauled so often into court.

DETTON FAST

DEAN Detton, Ohio heavyweight, will clash with Billy Bartus in the semifinal, in going places in the mat game. I recently saw Detton in action in the New York Garden and consider him one of the best in the younger crop of grapplers.

In the preliminary, Frank Judson tangles with Charley Strack, Tommy Rae with Helme Olson, Joe Starcher with Stanley Sitkowski, Michael Debron with Frank Doyle, and John Mainburg with an opponent to be named today.

GAY PAREE

JOHNNY Buckley checks out of Boston tonight in the first step of his journey to Paris where he will second Lou Brouillard in the latter's world middleweight championship bout with Max Baer, Tili on January 20.

Buckley will take in the Garden bouts in New York tomorrow night as he has Frankie Connolly booked in one of the preliminaries, and at midnight will be headed out across the Atlantic.

"Brouillard will kick Tili," said Buckley. "In their last tussle, Lou had Tili on the floor in the twelfth round. The distance for the championship meeting is 15 rounds, and this will give Brouillard plenty of time in which to catch up with the Frenchman."

"Jeff Dickson has called me that the show will draw $50,000 with a price scale of 40 cents to $15. In France, the government requires that sports promoters offer a certain number of seats at 40 cents to the members of the working class. There is no limit to the price that may be charged for a ringside seat."

"If Brouillard defeats Tili, I would like to sign Lou to clash with Jack McAvoy in London. "While abroad, I plan to take in the bout between Jack Peterson and Len Harvey in London on January 25."

"I am prepared to sign Jack Sharkey to meet the victor of this contest in a London ring. I would prefer a Judo bout, but the best, as it could then be staged outdoors."

RANDOM SHOTS

ACTION on Walter O'Hara's demand for a public hearing on charges that racing in Rhode Island is "crooked" has been postponed by Racing Commissioner Jim Thornton until after the convention of the Racing Commissioners at Miami, Fla. . . . The signing of Jimmy Fox by the Red Sox was merely a matter of form. Fox was already under contract with the Athletics, having been paid $10,000 a year that had two more years to run. . . . Jimmy declared he would leave money from radio work by coming to Boston. . . . The Red Sox made good this loss under the terms of the new one year contract. . . . It is understood the new contract calls for $20,000 a year. . . .

DERBY LAUDED

DANNAHY Brothers All FOR IT

HEALTH-GIVER, GOOD SPORT

By Walter Kiley

Most enthusiastic by far of the hundreds of Silver Skate Derby entries are the Dannahy brothers of Dorchester, Frank P. and Daniel J., speed veterans who were champions more than a quarter century ago.

Frank, aged 48, and Dan, 51, were among the first to enter the great Boston American Sunday Advertiser sponsored event at Franklin Field on January 28.

Frank's views on the Silver Skates Derby are interesting. He was New England one and three-mile champion in both 1900 and 1910 and has kept a scrapbook which speaks volumes for his talent.

LESS CRIME

Still youthful and fresh looking, despite his years, he is living proof of the value of outdoor skating. The silver skates derby which is one of the greatest events ever attempted around these parts," Frank stated today.

"Skating is a great sport because it is a healthful one. It makes for healthy bodies which in turn produce healthy minds. It gives young boys and girls a fine outlet for their excess energies. It occupies their minds."

"I venture to say that if more events such as this Silver Skates Derby were conducted, there would be far less crime among our youth."

"Our youth wouldn't be hanging around street corners in congested districts. They wouldn't be getting into so much trouble and thus be hauled so often into court."

"This is one of the reasons why Chicago now runs a great international carnival every season. More than 3000 schoolboys take part. We should do the same. "When I was a kid living on the site of the present Franklin Field, we used to skate every moment we could get. It was a habit which has always stayed with me."

"When I went over to France during the war, I was able to go through two years of the toughest kind of living and fighting, through the Meuse-Argonne, and other battles, without once getting sick."

KNOWS TRICKS

"I can tell you that the American-Advertiser skating Derby is bound to be a great success. Dan and I will be in there."

"You may think we're fooling ourselves, but let me tell you we will be right up with the leaders. "In the old days I could skate the mile in 7 minutes 38 seconds. I won't be far off that on January 28."

"Speed skating doesn't take its toll like other sports. Knowing how to conserve energy means more than actual strength."

Frank and Dan are among our most welcome entrants. We wish them all possible luck. And the same holds true for all potential champions."

Time is growing short. Entries will close very, very soon. Be sure yours is in.

SILVER SKATES DERBY RULES

All entrants in Derby must be amateur skaters. They must be bona fide residents of New England.

MIDGERS are those who will reach their 15th birthday the day of the race.

Here's Hose Side Of Dahlgren Case

By Joe Cashman

As with most stories, there are two sides to the "Babe" Dahlgren diatribe against the Red Sox management, latest local baseball bombshell.

Your money made no better for the Fenway bosses. They sometimes are wrong like all the rest of us. The following is an attempt to keep the records straight, merely to be admitted right off the bat that there's much to be said in Dahlgren's favor.

It is unimportant to a tough break for "Babe" if he must play with a minor league club at a minor league level as the optioned player of a big league pennant contender while there are other clubs in the majors that might take him were he to be asked on him.

He could be right, too, in believing he would have made a much better showing had he been allowed to stick to his natural batting style.

His stance and swing were experimented with most of the campaign. This hurt his hitting, if anything. It certainly didn't improve it. It doesn't in one case in a thousand.

But granting all this, the Sox heads have a fairly strong defense.

BABE DAHLGREN

"They paid a tidy sum, set at between $15,000 and $20,000, to get 'Babe' out of the Coast League a year ago. They gave him a real trial. They couldn't possibly use him this year with Jimmy Fox, one of the first-batters, and Eric McNair, a most capable substitute, at the bat, both present. And were they to put him up on waivers and have him claimed, they would lose him for $7500."

They can't be censured very harshly for not wishing to do that.

If sending him to Syracuse, they are helping a club with which they have a working agreement and promoting themselves in the event "Babe" improves to the point where some club will bid for him what he originally cost. A perfectly natural move.

If a team were to offer $15,000 in cash or players for Dahlgren to drop, we feel sure the Sox would not let him. For, sometime within the next three years, if they don't make a deal for him, they must ask for waivers or bring him back. And he surely doesn't figure to improve enough in that time to supplant Fox.

Having always found Dahlgren a nice kid, we're sorry he has squawked.

ed. It won't help him any and may hurt him.

He could, by being recalled to the Pens around Labor Day and being given a fat one-month contract, receive as much money playing for Syracuse as he was paid by the Sox last year. As a result of his outburst, however, he may get no more than the meagre International League salary limit.

It's unfortunate, we repeat, that Babe's in his present fix, but plenty of other players have had as bad or worse breaks.

Take Roy Johnson, for example. He was sent from a first division club to the last-place Red Sox of 1932. He was a sensation with that hopeless outfit.

The next year his sparkling play was the real redeeming feature of the first Yawkey aggregation. And the past two seasons he led the Fenway flock at the bat.

Yet, just when the natives have the pennant in sight, he is sold down the river to Washington, where he is likely to be forced to take a salary cut to play for a club which doesn't appear to stand a chance of getting a thin slice of the world's series mealm.

But you don't hear Roy crying. He's been around the game long enough to learn it never pays.

Dahlgren will gain the same knowledge some day.

We hope it will be soon, for he's an all right guy.
